

Laetitia Ducroquet

Laetitia Ducroquet has been a dedicated member of the Ipsen Group since May 2015. Over the years, she has held various pivotal roles within the Business Ethics department, culminating in her current position as Vice President of Global Business Ethics. In this capacity, Laetitia is responsible for overseeing the execution and continuous improvement of both internal and Third Party Business Ethics programs at Ipsen. She collaborates closely with business teams to foster a culture of ethics and accountability, ensuring that the interests of patients, employees, and other stakeholders are upheld.

Laetitia's extensive background in pharmacy, combined with her business acumen, uniquely positions her to navigate the complex ethical landscape of the pharmaceutical industry. She earned her pharmacy degree from Paris V University and furthered her education with a degree from the EM Lyon Business School. Her academic and professional journey reflects a commitment to excellence and a passion for ethical leadership.

Beyond her professional achievements, Laetitia is known for her proactive approach to promoting ethical practices and her dedication to continuous learning and improvement. Her leadership is instrumental in driving Ipsen's mission to maintain the highest standards of integrity and accountability in all its operations.